A coach's view

GHSF Daily asked Georgia head coaches to answer these four questions.

Jarrett Laws, Salem

1. What is the real difference-maker in winning and losing in Georgia high school football? "I've had the fortune of working in several different environments throughout my career, and I've found that the first indicator of success starts with administration. In my opinion, coaches that are fortunate enough to have a shared vision with their administrators often feel comfortable enough to step outside the box and try different techniques when building their program. Supportive administration breeds creativity when addressing other areas such as on-field talent evaluation, academic development and connecting with the surrounding community. I'm blessed to have more than enough support at Salem from my principal, Tonya Bloodworth, and her administrative team."

2. Which player that you've coached is memorable mostly for his character or inspiration? "I've had so many players that have inspired me throughout my career, and it would be totally unfair to cite a single one. But I would say that when you see and hear your values system organically come out of one of your players, it's inspiring in itself. I've told my kids throughout the years, 'God before all, team before me, books before ball, do right and compete!' When I see them live out these principles, especially when their playing career is long past them, they become an inspiration not only to me, but to others around me. I think one of my greatest joys is that if you took two young men that played for me in different time periods, they can recite our 'Four Steps' in equal fluency, and that means more to me than any scoreboard result."

3. What is the best atmosphere for a high school game that you've experienced away from home? "South and central Georgia have some of the best Friday night atmospheres in the nation, but I've never seen a more unique expression of community pride and pageantry than Lakeland High School in Florida. The fans line the streets around Bryant Stadium to form a weekly parade-like entrance for their team. The team buses are escorted through the town by multiple emergency vehicles and makeshift floats. Inside the stadium, the team is greeted by multiple cannon shots, an old warship bell and a corridor of lights, streamers, balloons and JROTC gun salutes which they call the 'Runway to Victory.' Even their mascot name, the Dreadnaughts, evokes fear in opponents. We used to say that the atmosphere itself puts the first seven points on the board, one way or another!"

4. As a player or coach at any level, which game do you wish you could play again? "Over the years, I've learned to accept wins and losses with equal respect to that specific moment in time. Often, though, my teams have been underdogs in big games, and I would say that it is the inspiration of those teams growing into a family on a Friday night, and fighting for respect when no one gave them a chance, that continue to inspire me to re-create new similar moments for my current and future players. It's that unique feeling in those moments that continues to push me under that maniacal center stage we call 'Friday Night Lights.'"

PAST PLAYERS of GHSA

Region 4-AAAA teams

D.J. Shockley's legacy is patience and loyalty. He is remembered in his home state as the quarterback who backed up David Greene for three years, waiting his turn, and then leading Georgia to a 2005 SEC championship as a fifth-year senior.

Shockley's patience and loyalty were apparent before that, though. In high school, he became North Clayton's starting quarterback as a sophomore. His teams would never win a playoff game. They played in only one. Greener pastures were not an option. Shockley's head coach was his father, Donald.

But Shockley thrived as best he could. As a senior in 2000, Shockley threw for 1,861 yards and 11 touchdowns and rushed for 864 yards. That doesn't sound like much, but it was accomplished in 10 games for an overmatched team that won its last four games just to finish 4-6. The 19 touchdowns were about 130 of the team's 156 points. He was the AJC's first-team all-state quarterback in Class AAAAA, the highest classification.

Shockley's abilities did not go unnoticed nationally, even before the era of 7-on-7 tournaments and national All-America games. If there had been an Elite 11 Finals in his day, Shockley would've been there. SuperPrep rated him the No. 4 overall prospect in the country, the No. 1 quarterback. He was Max Emfinger's No. 1-rated "athletic" quarterback, a term that preceded the "dual-threat" tag.

Shockley was the best player in the history of his current Region 4-AAAA school. Here are others.

- *Druid Hills: Mike Brinkley (1985)
- *Eastside: Justin Wray (2008)
- *Henry County: Dalvin Tomlinson (2011)
- *Luella: Rod Sweeting (2008)
- *North Clayton: D.J. Shockley (2000)
- *Salem: Torell Troup (2005)
- *Woodward Academy: Julian Jenkins (2001)

Georgia Elite Classic introduces Freshman Game

The Georgia Elite Classic will celebrate its fifth year this December with the addition of a Freshman All-Star Game at McEachern High School on Dec. 28. The games, created by the Corky Kell leadership team of Dave Hunter and I.J. Rosenberg and starting as the Junior Elite Classic in 2013, have become one of the top high school December All-Star events in the county and are always well-attended as well as receiving a lot of attention from recruiting services and college programs and coaches. There will be a total of five games at McEachern, beginning with a B2C Eighth Grade All-Stars showdown at 9 a.m., followed by the Freshman All-Stars at 11 a.m., the Sophomore All-Stars at 1:30 a.m., the Junior All-Stars at 4:15 p.m. and the Senior All-Stars, who will finish off the day with a 7 p.m. kickoff. There will be more than 400 players and 60 coaches participating, and all high school players in the state of Georgia are eligible to make the teams and can register to be considered by clicking here. A committee of coaches will begin picking the players in mid-October and send out invites. The game includes staying for two nights at the Marriott Northwest across from the new Atlanta Braves ballpark as well as all meals, a game jersey, a bag of swag, three practices and a night out at Stars & Strikes with all the teams. The information for the games can be found at GeorgiaEliteClassic.com and again you can register to be considered by clicking here.
